IN RE: THE PRESERVATION OF ANTIQUATED PROCEDURAL DECORUM

CONSULTATION ORDER

(MANDATORY CONSOLIDATION · AUTHORIAL ORDER · FIRST PAGE)

NOW COMES THE AUTHOR, with explicit haughtiness pursuant to the antiquated decorum of the relevant institutions, and finds that the separate filing volumes cannot be accepted to commence intake of this set.

WHEREAS, the four individual works already contain the information tendered for public consideration; and

WHEREAS, the solemn requirements of procedural theater evidently demand that the identical materials be housed beneath one cover before anyone shall be permitted to examine their substance;

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED, for purposes of this satirical publishing jurisdiction, that the Public shall be required to purchase this pre-assembled packet in order to receive ONLY and EXACTLY the same information otherwise available in its component volumes.

The redundancy shall be retained without prejudice, for the preservation of idiocy, antiquated practice, and procedurally embedded cranio-rectal insights.

FURTHER ORDERED: Before consulting the volume's form, readers shall consult its contents. The generation of a receipt shall not be mistaken for the administration of justice.

SO ORDERED — by the Author, not any court.

JUSTIN A. TAHAI

Author · Citizen · Formerly of the Belief That a Form Was a Solution

SATIRICAL FRONT MATTER. NOT AN ACTUAL COURT ORDER, FILING REQUIREMENT, PURCHASE MANDATE, OR STATEMENT OF LAW.